Proceeding into ALA Naad …

ALA Buddha is the wrathful Buddha who can also be addressed as Rudra in Vedas, Tejas in Yoga and is Yamuna river inside each aspirants Pingala Naadi

Above figure describes Rudra Deva (sound of ALA or ALA Naad) when the delicate travelling automobile (of the aspirant who realizes this state) is stationed in nearer proximity to central yellow orb of ALA as has been shown in above painting

Since ALA Naad (Rudra Deva) self-manifests (i.e. spontaneously originates) out of Ahum Naad (Aghora face of Sadashiva), so Rudra Deva is also a self-originated one and thus Rudra has no parent (Sire) … Thus Rudra Deva is also a Swayambhu (Self-originated one) … It is because of this cause Vedas place Rudra Deva as one of the primary deities
